The new XV variable capacity compressor is the result of our unique ambition to set a new future standard for household compressors.

Intelligently combining an extremely small size with extremes in high performance, the Secop XV compressor pioneers the global demands for innovation, efficiency and sustainability.

The XV compressor represents a new beginning and rethinking of matters. The small Secop XV compressor is based on a completely new system approach and new technology.

However big your challenges might appear the small Secop XV compressor is designed to provide the most intelligent and efficient performance.

In many ways, the XV compressor is a perfect model for our work and business ethic, always passionate about creating valuable solutions in the most straightforward and reliable way.

We believe that the excellent and long lasting cooperation with our customers and suppliers in China and worldwide are the basis for the success of our company.

We at Secop feel highly honoured that our technology has been recognized in China by winning the China Refrigeration Exhibition Innovation Award in 2013 and 2014.
